Parliamentary Debates (Hansard).

Annual Report of the Director General of Insurance Edited by three eminent physicians who are also noted medical writers, this encyclopedic collection contains over 10,000 entries ranging from major essays to short definitions, all written in language that is readily accessible to health care professionals and lay readers. Written by over 150 medical experts from the United States and the United Kingdom, the entries consider the historical developments and state-of-the-art of the major medical disciplines; discuss the academic, educational, and administrative structure of the profession and its relations to government and the law; and include numerous contributions to medicine, and definitions of common medical terms. Designed not only as a serious reference but also as a source of interesting and curious facts, the Companion contains detailed reviews of topics such as biochemistry, genetics, medical ethics, and surgery, interspersed with more leisurely entries on Music and Medicine, Cults and Quackery, and Bernadette of Lourdes. Encyclopedic in scope, this two-volume work will provide anyone interested in medicine with a fascinating and informative survey of the field. Selected entries: Addiction Anatomy Art & Medicine Clinical Chemistry Computers in Clinical Medicine Death, Dying, and the Hospice Movement Doctors as Patients Ethical Issues Foundations, Charities and Grant-Making Bodies Genetics Geriatrics Government & Medicine Hematology Insurance Intensive Care Law & Medicine Medical Books and Libraries Medical Education Medical Journals Microbiology Music & Medicine Neurology and the Neurological Sciences Nuclear Medicine Nursing Pain Pharmacology, Clinical Pharmacology & Therapeutics Psychology in Relation to Medicine Sports and Medicine Tropical Medicine Ultrasonics Women in Medicine

Transactions of the Indian Ceramic Society Breast cancer is the most frequent cause of cancer-related deaths in women in Europe, and demographic trends indicate a continuing increase in this substantial public health problem. Systematic early detection through screening, effective diagnostic pathways and optimal treatment have the ability to substantially lower current breast cancer mortality rates and reduce the burden of this disease in the population. This is the fourth edition of these guidelines which contains information on recommended standards and procedures for breast cancer screening and diagnostic services, including chapters on multi-disciplinary aspects of quality assurance, data collection and monitoring, effective communication of information, requirements of a specialist unit, and a certification protocol.
